

GRODNO NOW OCCUPIED BY HINDENBURG

GERMANS CAPTURE LAST OF IMPORTANT RUSSIAN STRONG- HOLDS, SAYS WIRELESS.

DRAW CLOSER TO RIGA

German Armies Are Within Forty Miles of Russian Naval Base on Baltic—Petrograd Admits Reverses.

Berlin, via wireless to Tuckerton, N. J., Sept. 3.—The army of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has captured Grodno, the last of the strong Russian fortresses to hold out. The capture of Grodno by the Germans marks the fall of the twelfth Russian fortress within a month, beginning with the fall of Warsaw on August 5. It was the last of the Russian fortresses in Poland to hold out. It became untenable when the Germans cut the Grodno-Vilna railway line to the northeast and were fighting their way to the stronghold from east and south.

Kaiser Honors Mackensen.

Emperor William has conferred upon Field Marshal Von Mackensen the order of the black eagle, the highest decoration within the emperor's gift, the Overseas News Agency announced today.

Further Gains Near Riga.

The German troops which are advancing on the important Russian port of Riga on the Baltic, have made a further consequential gain. Official announcement was made here today that they captured a position northwest of Friedrichsdorf, which is about forty miles from Riga.

Petrograd Admits Losses.

London, Sept. 3.—Petrograd admits officially that Russian forces are being withdrawn from the right bank of the Niemen. The losses by the Russians of their strong fortresses, including Grodno, have been expected, and the report of the latter's evacuation caused no surprise here. It has been evident for some time that Grand Duke Nicholas had no intention of allowing a number of men sufficient to maintain a long defense to be penned up in any fortress which would be invested.

Along the Galician border General Izanoff continues to retire, but not without inflicting heavy losses on the Austro-German forces, which have been shaken several times by vigorous counterattacks.

In the center and extreme north the Germans are making little progress. The Russian claim another local success near Vilna.

Artillery Duel Continues.

The great artillery duel continues along a large part of the western front held by the French. The ultimate purpose of this activity is still obscure.

The British press is not greatly pleased by the reception of the United States of Germany's peace proposals. It claims that a promise which does not include protection for merchantmen is inadequate.

Divide Germanic Armies.

The German and Austrian armies on the eastern front are about to part company, according to a dispatch from Amsterdam. This quotes a message from Vienna announcing that Field Marshal Archduke Frederick, commander-in-chief of the Austrian army, today gave official farewell to Field Marshal Von Mackensen, the German commander, at Brest-Litovsk, and that henceforth the armies of the two commanders were to cease co-operating.

The message says it is believed the Austrian army that have been operating in Poland will shortly be removed in the direction of Serbia.

Bulgaria Holding Out.

Roma, Sept. 2, via Paris, Sept. 3.—Bulgaria has agreed to exclusively to Serbia, Roumania and Greece, according to reports received here, although these countries are not willing to satisfy Bulgaria's claims to territorial compensation for participation in the war.

Bulgaria's pretensions are irreconcilable with that of her neighbors, and the impression is gaining ground here that they are prolonging the negotiations with the aim of postponing the day when they must reach a decision.

Surround Turkish Forces.

Paris, Sept. 3.—An important part of Turkish forces on the Gallipoli peninsula has been surrounded by the allies and its surrender is imminent, says an Athens dispatch to the Four-nation agency.

BORDER TERRITORY SCoured IN SEARCH FOR BANDIT RAIDERS

Seek Mexicans Who Killed Two Americans in Fighting Thursday—Three Bandits Meet Death.

Brownsville, Sept. 3.—The entire lower border was agog for clues of the whereabouts of Mexican bandits, who yesterday killed two Americans and later lost one of their own number in a fight with United States infantry.

Spread out in a close cordon, which left no foot of the international boundary unpatrolled, the border guards were ready to shoot on sight if the fifteen remaining members of the band made any effort to ford the swollen Rio Grande to Mexico and safety.

Three Bandits Killed.

Three of the Mexican bandits operating just north of here were killed last night by county officers, according to information received here today. In addition to the Mexicans killed last night it is said a Mexican woman deserted by her husband when the Mexican outlaws appeared at their home north of the border was accidentally killed by United States soldiers when she approached them in the darkness in search of protection.

Receives Report.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The war department received today the following report of the third cavalry, commanding the Brownsville district of the fight with Mexican bandits yesterday, after a bridge east of San Benito had been burned.

Detachments of the third cavalry and 20th infantry drove into the brush Mexican bandits who burned a bridge last night at a point about seven miles east of San Benito, and are making all attempts to take the pursuit tomorrow morning. Lieutenant Faulkner of the 26th infantry, with half of Company C, had a running fight with the enemy this afternoon, killing one, wounding one and recapturing one American prisoner. No casualties among the soldiers were reported. When the skirmish began the bandits immediately killed two white prisoners, Donaldson and Smith.

In transmitting the report Major General Funston said he had private advice from Brownsville that the raiders had spent the night in a prisoner, recaptured by Lieutenant Faulkner's men, because he was reported to be a German citizen.

PONCET KILLS SELF; HIS MIND DERANGED

French Lieutenant Believes Himself Army Deserter and Ends Own Life This Morning.

Paris, Sept. 3.—The idea that a soldier of France should desert the army at a time of his country's greatest need so weighed upon the mind of Lieutenant Poncet that he committed suicide today under the hallucination that he himself was a deserter. The lieutenant was a clerk in the supreme court, and he had been detailed to act as representative of ministry of justice before second court martial of Paris. In this capacity he was called upon to investigate many cases of desertion. His mind thus fixed on the subject, he came to haunt and prey upon him until he became deranged.

Every unknown person whom he encountered in the palace of justice he took for a secret service man or a spy. This morning he was having breakfast with his family when the doorbell rang.

"They are secret service agents who have come to arrest me for desertion," he cried.

He ran to his room and before he could be prevented seized his revolver and killed himself.

GERMANS NOW STRIKE TOWARD BLACK SEA

Dispatches from Berlin for some time past have intimated that the next move of the Austrian and German armies in the east after clearing Poland and establishing a strong defensive line as far as the Baltic, would be to turn south and drive through the southern provinces of Russia to the Black Sea.

Hingham Police Chief Assaulted in Jail, Locked in Cell, Escapes and Runs Down Auto Thieves.

Hingham, Mass., Sept. 3.—With his skull fractured and his nose broken, Chief of Police Washington Jones today killed one prisoner and helped capture another, two hours after they had beaten him with a hammer and locked him in a cell in an attempt to escape. Jones then was taken to a hospital where his condition was said to be serious.

The dead man was known as James Harmon, who with his companion, Wallace William, alias Walter Welsh, had been held on the charge of having stolen an automobile in Boston Tuesday night. This morning when James took them to breakfast, they set upon him, took his revolver and locked him in a cell. Two street car employees who saw the men leave the jail released James. The chief started in pursuit and overtook them a half mile from jail. When he called upon them to surrender, Harmon replied with two shots from the chief's revolver. Then James began shooting and his third bullet went through Harmon's head. William made a dash through the brush, but was found biding a few minutes later.

TALKED WITH WOODS THE NIGHT BEFORE SINKING OF ARABIC

Fellow Passenger of Janesville Man and Brother Mason, Writes to Local Commandery.

H. J. Cunningham, recorder for Janesville Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, has received a letter from a fellow passenger of Dr. Edmund F. Woods, who was lost in the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic, pressing sorrow over the Janesville man's fate. The writer, who is a brother Mason, is Frederick Martin of North Carolina. He states in his letter, which was sent to the board of the Arabic, and which arrived in New York on Thursday, that he had a long conversation with Dr. Woods on the evening before the Arabic was torpedoed. His letter will be of deep interest to friends of Dr. Woods. It is given below:

White Star Liner Arabic. To the Recorder, Aug. 26, Janesville Commandery No. 2, K. T., Janesville, Wis.

As a brother Mason I write you regarding the late brother Edmund F. Woods, whom I had the greatest pleasure of meeting on board the late S. S. Arabic. At the time of this boat's sailing, I could get no word of him, and an afraid he must have been torpedoed. We sat at the same table for meals, but the morning we were torpedoed he had not turned out for breakfast. I made several inquiries from the other fellows at our table, but none of them remembered having seen him that morning. I had a long chat with him the night before, and was looking forward to many more, but it was not to be. He gave me his short final address, and the other fellows and I sincerely hope I have no card to enclose but my address is: "Reynolds Winston, Salem, North Carolina, R. F. D. No. 2."

With much sorry,

Yours fraternally,

FREDERICK MARTIN.

CARLSON FUNERAL IS HELD ON WEDNESDAY

Youth Killed in Auto Accident Near Clinton Interred in Bergen Cemetery—False Facts Printed.

Clinton, Sept. 3.—The funeral of Edward Carlson, the youth killed in an auto accident near here early Monday morning, was held Wednesday afternoon at one-thirty o'clock at the home of his father, Mr. E. Carlson. Burial was made in the cemetery at Bergen.

Errors were made in the story of the accident printed in Monday's paper. The Newhouse youth was in the car, the third young man being George Nelson. The trio had been at a church social and were going to the home of the youth's father, who had been visiting there. The accident happened near Darien, at the foot of a hill, where a washout caused the driver to lose control of the steering wheel. The dead was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlson, while George Nelson suffered sprains instead of the Newhouse youth, as stated.

Pray of Flint, Mich., submitted to the American consulate an affidavit stating he was a German citizen and had fled from a concentration camp since the beginning of the war, having previously been employed by a German automobile company. Although he exhibited a passport, it is stated he was prevented from communicating with the American consulate and was compelled to perform hard manual labor. He said he escaped from a German camp in May and walked across France, working his way to London.

MRS. MOHR ATTENDS TO ALL DETAILS OF HUSBAND'S FUNERAL

Wife of Wealthy Providence, R. I., Doctor, Charged With Inciting His Murder, Arranges for His Burial.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 3.—Although accused of inciting the murder of her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, a well known physician, Mrs. Elizabeth Tibbany Blay Mohr, released on bonds of $10,000, had full charge of the funeral today of her husband, from whom she had been separated for several months.

Make Funeral Arrangements.

Mrs. Mohr sent out invitations to the services and asked the Rev. Francis J. Bassett, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, to read the funeral ritual in the parlor of Dr. Mohr's house, an exclusive residential section of the city. Mrs. Mohr also directed that the burial should take place at the Swan Point cemetery. Only intimate friends and family were asked to attend the services. Mrs. Mohr arranged that the two children, C. Franklin, Jr., and Virginia, who had been living with her, return to their former home for their father's funeral. Charles Manning Mohr of New York, a son of the physician by a former marriage, also was present at the expectation of attending the funeral.

While a large detail of police guarded the Mohr home and held in check inquisitive spectators, detectives were searching for a man who had been charged with the murder of Dr. Mohr on Nayatt road, in Barrington. According to the story of one of the three negroes who accused Mrs. Mohr of having hired them to kill Dr. Mohr, the revolt with which Dr. Mohr was killed and Mrs. Emily G. Burger, his secretary and companion on Tuesday night's automobile ride, was surrounded, were thrown into this brook.

To Search for Will.

Arthur Cushing, Mrs. Mohr's attorney, who succeeded in obtaining Mrs. Mohr's release last night by offering her own property as part security for bail bonds, said today he would begin a search for the doctor's will as soon as the funeral was over. He had half a dozen books and papers of the doctor, he said, and expected to make a search for valuable documents within the next few days.

Dr. Mohr's estate, the value of the physician who knew the extent of his practice said the property would be worth $500,000. They estimate Dr. Mohr's income during the past fifteen or twenty years from $50,000 to $75,000 a year.

Sobs Interrupt Interview.

Amid the prostration of the funeral of her husband, whose death she is accused, Mrs. Elizabeth Tibbany Blay Mohr today lost her composure for the first time since suspicion fell upon her. She had attempted a formal interview, but it was soon interrupted with sobs and ended in outbursts of weeping. The funeral of Dr. Mohr, which was held today, was arranged in all its details by his widow, who after her arrest was released on bail. She halted her duties at her home today to receive a reporter.

Then she said: "But I am innocent and I have nothing to fear. The story of those negroes is ridiculous. There is no question but that the story they first told of their plan to rob the doctor was the real motive for the shooting."

RUSSIAN SCIENTIST DISTINGUISHES SELF AS AN AIR SCOUT

Petrograd, Sept. 3.—A well known Russian scientist, a professor in one of the universities, has recently distinguished himself as an air scout. He went with the army to Galicia as a volunteer, and while there interested himself in aviation, becoming a very useful observation officer. He had a very good reason for his scientific knowledge.

A few days ago a German plane, apparently by mistake, descended behind the Russian lines, and the Russian observation officers were promptly taken prisoners, before they even had an opportunity to destroy or wreck their machine.

The professor, with a military pilot immediately saw his chance and climbed into the captured airplane. They rose as rapidly as possible in order to escape any firing from their pursuers. The professor, however, in a considerable height, they descended to a good inspection range when they reached the main German position, and thoroughly examined everything visible, making notes and plans at leisure.

All went well until they accidentally came over what was evidently the German aviation section, where they could see preparation being made for their reception with supposed valuable information about the Russian position. The professor was over the aerodrome, for they were flying low, and the German officers were not slow to note the unusual movements of the supposed Russian plane, whose duty it was to land swiftly and expedite its report to headquarters.

When it became evident that this German machine had no intention of landing and looked as if it were trying to edge upwards and away, the Germans suspected a trick, and communicated with the ground. The Russian plane, however, at a moment or two before they were out of range, but they eventually got back safely.

ALL PARTIES MUST FAVOR PEACE MOVE

U. S. WILL NOT OFFER TO MEDIATE UNLESS ALL Warring Nations Favor Peace Settlement.

GERMANY IS WILLING

Message From Pope Benedict Indicates That Teutonic Powers Are Ready to Consider Terms to End Struggle.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The United States will make no further effort to bring about peace in Europe until it has received information that its good offices will be welcomed by both sides in the conflict. This was stated authoritatively today after an unofficial message from Pope Benedict, delivered to President Wilson yesterday by Cardinal Gibbons, had been considered.

Teutons Favor Peace.

From the fact that he is in close touch with Austria, the construction placed by officials on the Pope's message is that the Germanic powers would be willing to discuss peace at this time. It was stated by those in close touch with the administration that similar word would have to be received from Great Britain and its allies before the president would make any further move.

President Wilson has made it clear several times that his original offer of services to bring about peace still stands, and that he will do everything possible to further the movement. The United States, however, will do nothing until it is clear that the position of a friend to all belligerents, it was said authoritatively.

Withhold Pope's Message.

While the Pope's message will not be made public until there would be no objection if Cardinal Gibbons gives it out, enough of the contents of the message is known, however, to give basis for indicating that Austria, Germany and Turkey are not averse to discussing peace.

No Peace Talk in Britain.

London, Sept. 3.—In high official circles it is learned authoritatively that rumors of peace have no foundation in any step taken by the British government, or in any statement issued here from authoritative sources.

NATIONAL DEFENSE FURTHER DISCUSSED

Publication of President's Letters to Garrison and Daniels Brings Subject to Front.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Publication of President Wilson's letters to Secretaries Garrison and Daniels, calling upon them to prepare for him definite programs for strengthening the army and navy, brought the question of national defense to the front again today. The president will submit the proposals, together with his recommendations to congress at its forthcoming session.

Another angle to the question of national defense, is the announcement by acting Secretary Roosevelt of navy department, of plans for building up adequate national navy reserve in addition to existing state militia and regular reserve, created by the last congress to mobilization of youth and reserve officers, and their craft with navy reserve ships in a training squadron.

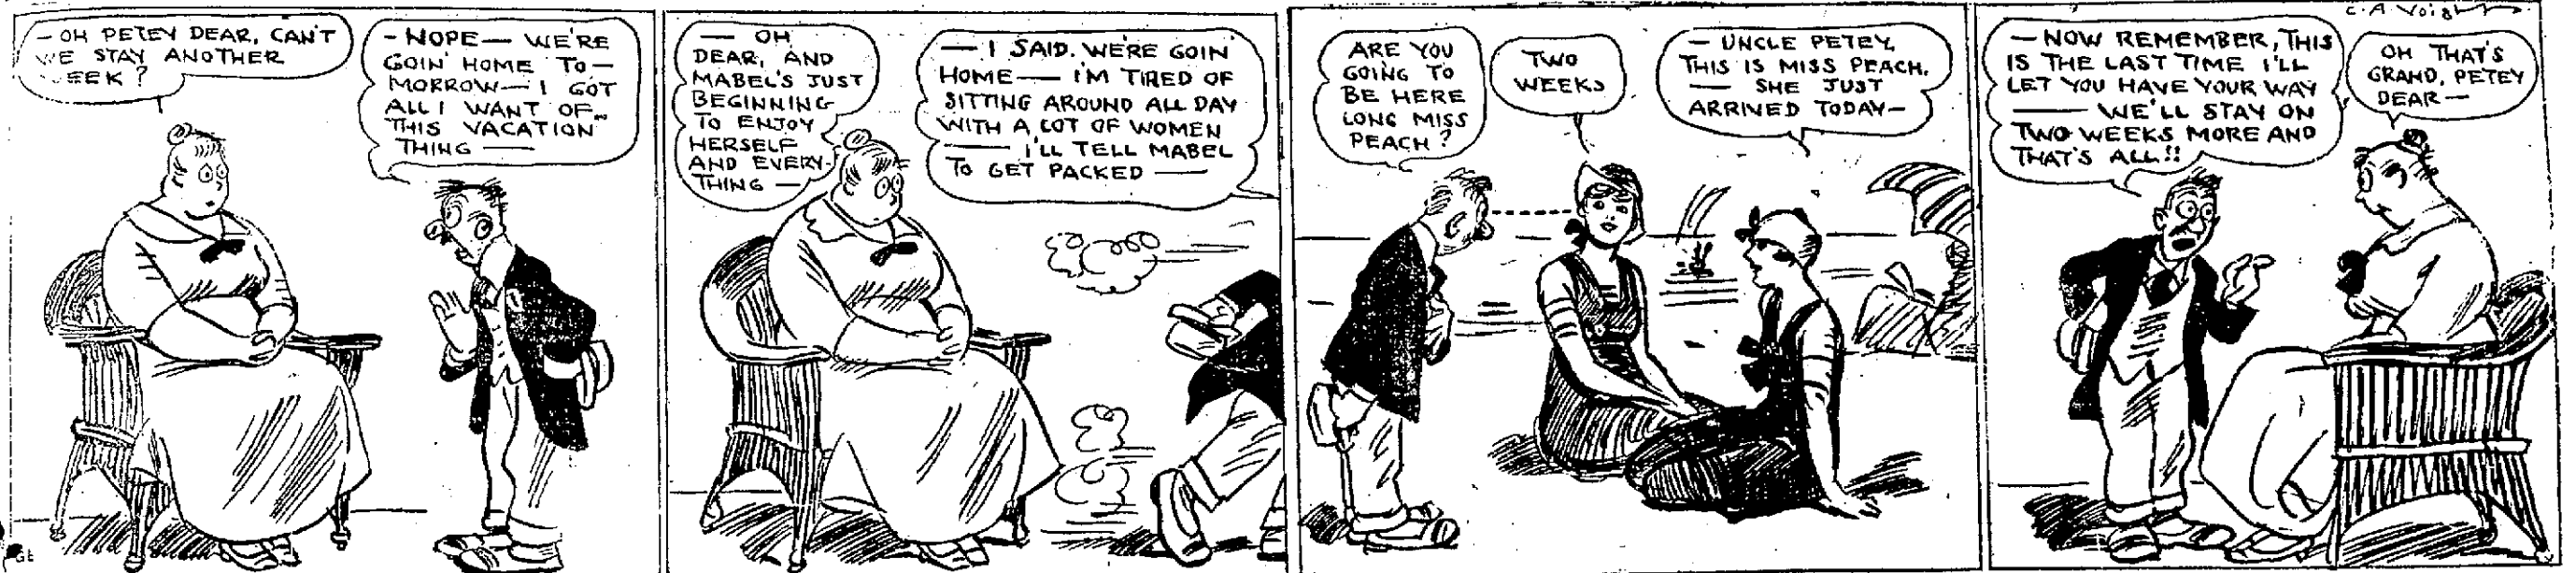

In army and navy circles today the nature of the recommendation of the president will make as a result of the conference he plans to hold soon with Secretaries Garrison and Daniels and others, was awaited by others.

MORRIS MILLER

The determination of the Federal league leaders to get managers who can make their men play real baseball has caused three shifts in club management since the 1915 season opened. Bill Phillips, who piloted the Newark Peppers, was the first to be ousted, following an argument with one of his bosses over the running of the team. Larry Schaffly was the next to walk the plank, being succeeded at Buffalo by Harry Lord. And now it is Lee Magee of the Brookfields, who casts off his managerial mantle and resumes life as a mere ball player.

Toney and Dale are Cincinnati's mainstays in the box. Meadows, the spectacled hurler, tops the Cardinal pitchers, with Robinson showing improvement, winning eleven and losing thirteen games.

Luderus now tops the National

OBTAIN NEW PLAYERS FOR BELOIT SERIES

Strength of Janesville Cardinals Increased Twenty-Five Percent With New Pitchers and First Baseman.

Players for the coming series between the Janesville Cardinals and the Beloit Fairies have been secured by Manager George Caldwell for the Cardinals but today Manager Caldwell was in Madison in final effort to land the big "zip" boy who has won the approval of Janesville fans.

For pitchers the Cardinals have secured strong men in Sunday's game, Ormsbee, a southern leaguer who has a record of fourteen wins and one defeat in fifteen starts on the mound, will do the twirling. "Denny" Lafferty, the Beloit star, is expected to oppose him and a sensational slugging duel is expected to result. For behind the bat the Cardinals have secured Delaney, again and much is expected of him. Joe Nelson who has played first is likely to give way to Sweeney, because of the hitting power of the latter. "Denny" Lafferty, regular, will be at second, with Johnson, the fastest shortstop in Chicago at short, and Jack Kernan, at third. Here is an infield that like a head for the rest of the year. Early this year he was a huge joke at the bat and had to be dropped down in the order. Now he has started his annual fall binging bee, and he will probably sting the rest of the season. His drives recently are all of the clean-cut variety, right on the nose, and they will win games when the men ahead of him are also hitting.

Casey Stengel of the Brooklyn Nationals is a peculiar hitter. He seldom starts hitting the ball until the season is half over, and then he bats like a fiend for the rest of the year. Early this year he was a huge joke at the bat and had to be dropped down in the order. Now he has started his annual fall binging bee, and he will probably sting the rest of the season. His drives recently are all of the clean-cut variety, right on the nose, and they will win games when the men ahead of him are also hitting.

If it is true that Rube Marquard may move to Brooklyn, Lavan, a true service to Squire Ebbets ball club. Wilbert Robinson did more than any one else to make a pitcher out of the Cubs and it is not at all unlikely that he can still get some pitching out of him. If the left-hander did show a flash of his best twirling form, it might even make all the difference between winning and losing the flag.

When the Giants were winning pennants the same persons were "bouncing" flowers at them who were "bouncing" them at the time. Yet if one of the players would jump to the Reds for a larger salary what a howl would arise about his lack of loyalty to the fans, the city and the team.

PATENTS TO INVENTORS.

Richard S. Caldwell, solicitor of patents, 812 Majestic building, Milwaukee, reports patents issued on August 31, 1915, to Wisconsin inventors as follows:

Edmund J. Aschinger, Oshkosh, bench clamp and planing vise; Arthur J. Brown, Milwaukee, dynamo electric machine; G. W. Butters, Appleton, mechanism for producing an oscillating movement; H. A. Henry, Clemons, Manitowish, box opener; Joseph B. Cullen, Milwaukee, mail box; Percy C. Day, Milwaukee, transmission gearing; John M. Howarth, Wausau, chair for elevators; Joseph E. Johnson, Jr., Ashland, recovery of volatile products from gases; Charles J. Klein, Milwaukee, (2) jump sockets and ranging lamp sockets, pendant switches and the like; Torbjorn C. Koremo and T. C. Olson, Madison, automatic photographic printing machine; Alvaro S. Kutz, Janesville, rubber tire; Orrin C. Samphire, Milwaukee, connecting bracket for dental handpieces; Frank Sandt, Kenosha, reversible bed rail fastener; William Schalk, West Allis, box; Frank C. Stuckel, Racine, key remover; Carl C. Thomas, Madison, combined gas engine and turbine and process of converting heat energy into power.

NEW BLOOD

One result of the MILK and REST TREATMENT is the production of an abundance of good blood, rich in red blood corpuscles and hemoglobin—the principal element of blood.

It is a well established fact that through the blood only can any chronic disease or ailment be cured.

None of the usual methods of heart stimulation, such as alcohol or other drugs, massage, inhalations of oxygen, solutions injected into the veins, or transfusion of blood, can equal the results of the MILK DIET TREATMENT in effect, in permanency, in total lack of danger.

A Tale of Civil Strife

"And gives you another fighting man—I see. Queer duck, that preacher—a bit of a knave, to my notion, and one of the finest liars I have ever heard; he'll bear watching. Ah! our friend the major has come to his senses—look yonder! They are moving back out of range."

"Ay! and concentrating a heavier body of men this way."

"Of course; the first assault will be from the front. Tell Wharton to spare me two or three more men, and send a couple from your end. They may make a rush from all directions, but the real fight will be here; they are going to try us out, that is certain."

I walked back to my station. The line of men threatening this end of the building had been drawn aside, out of direct rifle range, and seemed to be grouped opposite each corner, and were so closely bunched together as to make any estimate of their numbers impossible. They were only shapeless shadows, with moonlight gleaming from their weapons, and an occasional voice breaking the ominous silence. There remained nothing to do but await their action, ready for whatever might occur. I passed along the wall from man to man, assuring myself each was at his station, with loaded weapon, and well-filled cartridge belt.

"The fight will begin in front," I whispered, unable to distinguish faces, "and no firing here until I give the word."

In the darker corner where the prisoner sat motionless against the log wall, my eyes could distinguish nothing.

"Noreen."

"Yes," and she stood up. "Couldn't you see me?"

"Not the faintest shadow. I—I wanted to thank you for the choice you made."

"You mean my coming with you? You are glad I did?"

"Yes, very glad," I said earnestly. "For you are just as safe here, and—and I would rather have you near me. This may prove a desperate struggle; we are terribly outnumbered—and—and, well, you know, you—you trusted yourself to me—you are under my protection."

There was no answer; perhaps I had said too much. Suddenly a volley roared out, startling in the stillness—a shout of command—the sharp bark of carbines—then a grim, threatening yelp of voices. One leap brought me to the window, with gun barrel thrust forward across the sill. The two black shadows were breaking up in headlong rush toward the door at the south corner. I saw figures, not faces, a gleaming of poised weapons, a huddle of leaping bodies.

"Fire!" I roared, my voice rising above the hideous din. "Give it to them!" and pulled trigger.

I have no clear knowledge of what followed—it was all so quickly over with; a mere mad moment crowded with vague glimpses, vanishing and changing in the lurid light of the guns. The whole interior of the church blazed and echoed, the smoke choking us with its fumes, the noise stunning our ears. I heard the chug of bullets splattering against the logs, smothered oaths, the crash of an overturned bench, a scream as shrill as a woman's, that made my heart leap, and Harwood's voice calling out the same word again and again. But although I heard all this, I hardly knew it, my whole thought riveted on those black figures in front of me—those reckless devils we had to kill or drive back.

And we did it! From every window, from every hastily smashed pane beside the door, we poured our fire—the carbines spitting into the dark, their sharp barking incessant. Barrels grew hot, the smoke drove back choking into our faces, but we pulled triggers, aiming as best we could in the moonlight, now changed to a red mist. They stopped; hung for a moment motionless, the ground dotted with the dead; then tried again. There was a roar of musketry, the crack of rifles; bullets chugged into the logs, and came crashing through the windows. Glass showered upon us, and the man next me went over like a log; someone struck me across the face with a bloody hand, and a shot splintered the stock of my gun, numbing my arm to the shoulder. I gripped another weapon out of the stiffening fingers of the man on the floor, firing again blindly into the smoke cloud. For an instant I could see nothing but that white vapor tinged with red and yellow flame; then some breath of air swept it aside, and the attackers were drifting back, running and stumbling.

"Stop firing!" I cried. "They've had enough. Pass the word to those men at the door."

The fight at the front held longer, yet it was scarcely five minutes when the last gun cracked, and a strange silence took the place of that hideous uproar. For an instant not even a cry from the wounded broke the stillness, the men leaning out of the windows watching the disorganized retreat. Then someone gave an exultant yell, and voice after voice caught it up, the old church echoing to the wild battle cry of the South.

"Steady, men, steady!" shouted Harwood from the door of the vestibule, his voice cleaving the din like the blade of a knife. "This is only the first act. Load!"

The light of the moon streamed in through the south windows, revealing the overturned benches, the smoke cloud drifting upward to the rafters. The lieutenant picked his way down the narrow aisle. He was bareheaded and careless, and even in that dim light I could perceive a dark stain, like oozing blood, on the front of his shirt.

"You are wounded?" I exclaimed.

"Nothing to worry over," he replied easily, his eyes laughing. "A mere touch in the shoulder, which, however, has put my left arm out of commission. Ah! fair cousin!" and he held up his hand in sudden greeting. "We who are about to die salute you."

"Do not say that," she pleaded. "Surely the victory is ours."

"Ay! we win the first round, but it has cost heavily. I doubt if we have such luck again. What loss have you, Wyatt?"

"Two wounded and one killed," I answered soberly. "We had Cowan's guerrillas to meet out there."

"Yes, I know; the infantrymen stormed the front, and the troopers peppered the side windows. Wharton has three down, while they got five of my lads. The front doors are fairly riddled. They'll consolidate next time, trust to the weight of numbers, and break through. They respect us now, but we haven't licked the fight out of them by a long chalk. I'm going to take three of your men."

He whispered a word to her, some good-natured pleasantry. I thought, as he bowed over her hand as though they parted in a gay parlor; then turned laughing away, and picked his passage down the aisle, a slender, debonaire figure, whistling a gay camp tune. I stared after him, scarcely able to comprehend such gay-spirited recklessness, when he stopped suddenly, and faced about.

"Do what you can for your wounded, Wyatt," he called back, his voice instantly serious. "And keep my fair cousin out of the ruck."

Several figures fell in behind him as he went forward—the men he had asked for from Wharton and O'Hare—all disappearing within the blackness of the vestibule. Leaving one man alone posted at each opening, I had the others of my small company bear the two wounded men to the farther corner, making them as comfortable as possible. The dead man was laid out on one of the benches, and then the three selected for that duty were sent to join the lieutenant. This disposition of force left me a window to stand alone against the second attack, the opening to the left of the pulpit, next to the corner in which lay the wounded men and the prisoner. As I crossed the platform and took my place, Noreen arose from beside one of the bodies and her hands grasped my arm.

"The soldier who was shot in the chest," she said, her voice trembling. "He—he tried to tell me something. I tore my skirt and bound it up, but there was no water. I—I wish he wouldn't groan so."

Her face, white in the moonlight, was uplifted; I even thought I could see the glint of tears in the eyes. Suddenly a great wave of sympathy, of regret, seemed to sweep over me, and I leaned the carbine against the wall, and clasped both her hands in mine.

"We grow accustomed to groans in war," I said swiftly; "but what unkindness is your being here exposed to all this danger."

"Oh, no one will hurt me; I am not afraid for myself—truly I am not. Captain Fox would never permit them to harm me."

"True; if Fox comes through alive; but Cowan and Raymond are both here, and I know not which I distrust the more. I did wrong to permit your ever coming with me; to risk your life in so desperate a game."

"Do not say that, Tom," her voice eager and earnest. "I am no worse off here than I would be if you had left me in Lewisburg. It was my choice, and even now I would rather be here with you. Why," she paused, drawing in a quick breath, "if—if I had remained behind I might be helplessly in the grip of Anse Cowan! Have—have you forgotten that?"

"No, I had not forgotten; but there is danger enough here—more than you realize. You have never seen men mad with battle lust, crazed from victory. They see through a red mist, and forget sex. They are coming in here presently, firing and killing, smashing their way through from wall to wall. Your cousin is not the kind to ever raise a white flag—he'll go down fighting, and his men beside him. I've been thinking of it all, my girl, and there is one thing I want you to do now, before the final assault comes."

"What?"

"Let me send you out under flag of truce to the protection of Captain Fox. He'll guard you as he would his own daughter."

"And—and leave you men in here to die?"

"To take our chances, of course; that is a part of the trade. Your remaining with us cannot change the result, whatever it may prove to be—and, with me, it is merely a choice between bullet and rope."

She buried her face in her hands, but there was no sound of sobbing. I waited, ashamed of my inconsiderate words, yet when her eyes were again lifted they were tearless.

"I know," she said, "and you feel that it will be best for you—for you, if I go?"

"Yes, Noreen," earnestly. "The very knowledge that you are here says my courage. Surely you can understand why this should be so, for the more desperate our defense the more ruthless our enemies will prove in the hour of victory. The very knowledge of what the result may be would almost lead me to surrender, and, to a less degree, your presence here must affect your cousin."

"The lieutenant! Why to a less degree?"

"Because," I broke forth swiftly, "you are less to him. There is no tie between you, except a distant relationship, that is all. His solitude is merely for the protection of a woman, while I cannot forget that you are my wife."

"A temporary matter, a mere form. So you wish to forget?"

"I did not say that; and have never thought it."

"Yet you regret?"

"Only because of the danger—here comes Harwood."

"Ah! my bold gunner of Staunton," he exclaimed as he stepped on to the pulpit platform, "and is everything still quiet here? Now you know what it means when they sing if you want a good time fine the cavalry. Let me get a glimpse without."

He stood gazing forth into the moonlight, and our eyes took in the same scene. Except for the dead bodies lying in the open, there was little to see, although a few figures, apparently of men, moved back and forth at a distance well beyond range.

"As I thought, Wyatt," said the lieutenant, finally turning about. "They are massing their forces again at the front. My lady, you will witness some real war presently."

"They may delay the next attack till daylight."

"No such luck; those fellows are soldiers, not Indians, and are anxious to get through with the job."

"I have been urging your cousin to let us send her out under flag of truce," I said quietly, "to the protection of Captain Fox."

"That is really what I came back here for," he admitted, "and we haven't any time to spare. What say you, fair cousin?"

She stood between us, and before she answered her eyes sought both our faces.

"My choice is to stay." Suddenly I felt her hand on mine. "You will not refuse me this privilege, Tom?"

"No," reluctantly; yet at the same time strangely delighted at the prompt decision, "but I thought the other best."

Harwood laughed lightly. "Against the blood," he said gayly. "Bah! so far as I was concerned the asking was mere form; the answer was already in the lady's eyes. But I must go back to my lambs."

"You have secured the door?"

"The best we can; braced it with benches solid to the wall. The wood will not resist long, but 'twill make an ugly abattoir for the Yanks to clamber in over."

He lifted his cap gallantly, and turned away, humming some gay tune softly as he felt his way along the moonlit aisle. His very light-heartedness left me sober and depressed. She must have realized all this, for her handclasp tightened.

"You are sorry? You wished me to go?"

"I hardly know, Noreen; I have every confidence in Fox—who is making that noise? Is it the preacher?"

Bracing the Will.
I think it rather fine, this necessity for the tense bracing of the will before anything worth doing can be done. I rather like it myself. I feel it to be the chief thing that differentiates me from the cat by the fire.—Arnold Bennett.

Dinner Stories

To show that he didn't approve of slang, a small boy explained to his school teacher one day that he had been talking with a friend, but neglected to take off his hat when they met a lady both knew. His friend had nudged him and whispered: "Take off your lid, you snip."

"What no should have said," explained the boy, "was: Remove your hat, you nut!"

Another small boy had this to say: "Anyway, it's only roughnecks who use slang nowadays."

Old John, the orangeman that historical personage who presides over the affections of Harvard men, was showing strangers through the yard at Harvard. On every hand they saw the college seal, bearing the motto: "Christi et Ecclesie." Not being on speaking terms with Cleopatra and the other Romans, this did nothing but to arouse their curiosity. Finally they asked John.

"I say," said one of the visitors, "I see these words everywhere. Can you tell me what they mean?"

John looked carefully at the Latin inscription, bit his pipe a little harder, and then replied, gravely: "O! don't just know, but O! I think it means, 'To hell with Yale!'"

"What can I do for you, my good man?" asked Alexander, as he stopped before the tub in which Diogenes made his home.

"Get out of my sunlight," said the philosopher.

Now of course Diogenes might have asked for fat government jobs and got it, but think of all the publicity he would have missed.

Jonah had just returned from that famous trip of his.

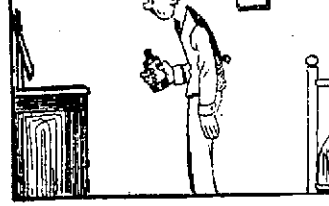

"Hello," said one of his friends. "Haven't seen you for quite some time. Where you been?"

"Just got back from my vacation," replied Jonah. "I had a whale of a time."

HOW TO HEAL SKIN-DISEASES

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ringworm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable drugstore get a jar of resolin ointment and a cake of resolin soap. These will not cost a bit more than seventy-five cents. With the resolin soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resolin ointment, and cover with a light bandage. If necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again.

A HINT FOR SHAVERS

If you want a refreshing shave, with a thick, creamy lather, try a resolin shaving stick. It contains the soothing, healing resolin medication which makes it especially welcome to men with tender faces.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Sept. 3, 1875.—The building committee of the Congregational church met last night and agreed to purchase a bell weighing fifteen hundred pounds, of the Jones manufacture, Troy, New York. Last evening a cow got on the railway bridge at Monterey and passed over two-thirds its length before she was discovered, and was driven off only a few minutes before the accommodation train came up from Chicago. So.

Dr. Horne recently wrote to a friend in Colorado and inquired after the condition of the crops in that territory and the welfare of the "hoppers." Mr. Weston answered by saying that the hoppers are yet numerous by the millions in some places and the prospects for corn are fair.

Felix Barere, who has been a clerk in the treasury department for many years in Washington, is home on a visit to his family. He is growing gray in the service of Uncle Sam.

Omaha, Sept. 3.—The heavy rains of yesterday washed out a good deal of track on the Chicago and Northwestern road, near New Jefferson. A cattle train went through the bridge at that place at eight o'clock last night. Twelve cars were smashed and nearly all the cattle killed. No men were seriously injured. The operators say it will be several days before they will get any trains from the east.

Another Message To the Business Men of Janesville

Business fights shy of dead towns. A sure sign of a dead one is the lack of local pride. People who live in a live, prosperous town show it. Their stores are attractive, their streets clean, their homes are well painted.

Nothing shows a lack of pride, a lack of prosperity, like paint-hungry buildings. Let's paint up. As the most durable and economical paint, we recommend and Dutch Boy linseed oil, mixed right on the job, to suit the job. Have your painter tint it any color you wish. Consult your paint dealer on that job of painting you have in mind. Today's the day.

Shipman White Lead

(Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark)

Two Big Factors for Wisconsin

Nature and the Wisconsin Daily League have arranged themselves to make business for the advertiser who will investigate conditions.

Wisconsin produces 90% of the peas canned in the United States.

Wisconsin is the leading dairy state in the Union.

Wisconsin has so many diversities in its income as to make it a never failing working ground for business.

The Wisconsin Daily League enters 125,000 of the best Wisconsin homes every day.

Twenty-six of the best papers at the best selling points in the state are read by over 600,000 of the population of the state.

Every publisher of every paper has been trained to co-operation. One order and one check distributed from the central office of the secretary clips off all unnecessary trouble for the advertiser.

Big advertisers are coming into the Wisconsin Daily League;

The whole doctrine of Devoe Lead-and-Zinc Paint turns on these three points:

1. It is all paint and true paint.
2. It is strongest, and goes farthest paint.
3. It is full measure.

Because these three things are true, Devoe Lead-and-Zinc Paint takes least gallons for the job; looks best all the time; lasts longer.

There is no such argument for any other paint; there is no such other paint; the man who uses Devoe gets the best he can in paint.

HOW TO MAKE SNEEZERS IMMUNE FROM HAY FEVER

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Maplewood, N. Y., Sept. 2.—At the meeting of the United States Hay Fever Association this afternoon, two New York physicians who have given particular study to the immunization of hay fever cases, presented the results of their investigation. Dr. Seymour Oppenheimer and Dr. Mark J. Gottlieb discussed "Some General Remarks on the Subject of Pollinosis (Hay Fever) with Particular Reference to its Treatment by Active Immunization and Results with a Demonstration of the Methods Employed in Determining Pollen Anaphylaxis."

The investigators found, they said: "Hay fever is due to a sensitization of an individual by the conveyance of pollen contents through the respiratory tract. There must be an abrasion of sensitization, an abrasion of the mucous membrane, so as to make parental absorption possible. In all likelihood these cases in the past are individual susceptibility to this particular disease which seems to have some relation to heredity, for this and other allied ailments are frequent in families. The physician cannot exclude it should be possible to employ one of four methods of making a man immune, viz:

1. By injecting a dose of pollen extract before the pollen season begins and repeating the procedure in twenty to thirty days.
2. By injecting a large quantity of immune serum during the attack.
3. By injecting very small amounts of pollen extract at intervals of ten days or less, so that only minute quantities of anaphylaxis are found and the patient's tolerance is raised.
4. By injecting very small doses of anaphylaxis made in the laboratory to produce the same results in method No. 2.

Dr. Gottlieb tested a number of patients with different pollen by the vaccination method in order to show to which pollen the different cases are susceptible.

RIVAL AVIATORS PLAY HIDE AND SEEK HIGH ABOVE THE CLOUDS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Paris, Sept. 2.—The game of hide and seek among the clouds more than a mile above earth, in which the German Tausche came off successfully, is described by a French flying officer in an article in the Paris correspondent of a Paris newspaper.

"We were chasing him, two of us," said the French aviator. "It promised to be a fine run. We were seven or eight thousand feet up, and there was a clear sky except for one great white patch of cumulus clouds. Closer and closer to him we came, and the German in our leading airplane was just getting ready to open fire, when bang! into the clouds went the German. Disappeared utterly. Swallowed up like a pill."

"All right," we thought. "He's got to come out some time. So we began making great circles around the patch of clouds. We kept on waiting until I began to wonder if the German plane hadn't been dissolved inside, when suddenly my gunner by my side simply zapped with rage. Out of the cloud below us, flying head down, came the German plane, straight as a plummet, and then, righting itself, went off at 100 miles an hour for the German lines. He had escaped us fairly by the most remarkable feat of aerial high-diving I have ever witnessed."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE LAST NIGHT

GEORGE SHAW COOK OF BOSTON GIVES ADDRESS ON SUBJECT "GOD IS GOOD."

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

Power to Dispel Sin, Disease and Suffering Rests Upon Certainty of God's Infinite Goodness.

The power of Christian Scientists to cure diseases and dispel sin, vice and suffering, rests upon the simple truth that "God is good, or that God is Love," according to George Shaw Cook, C. S. B., member of the board of lecturership of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Mass., in his address last night at the Janesville church. George S. Barker introduced the speaker.

Mr. Cook spoke in part as follows: "Upon first hearing of Christian Science one would naturally inquire: 'What does it promise to do for me?' 'Does it promise to heal me of disease, and to save me from sin?' 'Will it give success to my sorrow, and lift from me the burden of poverty, limitation, and fear?' 'Is it able to say to the seething waves of mortal turmoil, 'Be still?' 'Those who have become acquainted with Christian Science are able to assure the inquirer that it does all of this, and more. Unnumbered thousands are bearing grateful witness to the fact that they have found the benefit of Christian Science in their lives and because of it they are being redeemed from the ills to which flesh is heir. Weekly in the Wednesday evening testimonies, the Christian churches testify that it is being given to the healing and redemptive power of Christian Science. Week after week, month after month, and year after year, a new and more complete and reliable evidence of the healing power of truth is going out to the world through the Christian Science periodicals. In these ways, and in other ways, the suffering, the sick and the sorrowing are coming to know that there is 'balm in Gilead.'"

"The investigator will also learn that through Christian Science many have been rescued from lives of evil and from the very depths of degradation and depravity. He will find that these persons have been restored to their rightful heritage of freedom from evil and have become useful members of society. The seeker for facts concerning the effect of Christian Science in human experience will find that many who have been rescued from the bondage of sin, and the victims of environment and circumstances resulting in poverty and distress, are now finding their freedom and joy. They have been rescued from the bondage of sin, and the victims of environment and circumstances resulting in poverty and distress, are now finding their freedom and joy. They have been rescued from the bondage of sin, and the victims of environment and circumstances resulting in poverty and distress, are now finding their freedom and joy."

"If the investigator were to inquire how all this came to pass, and could have a concrete answer from all the Christian Scientists on earth, that answer would be: 'It is because we have come to know that God is good.' A simple answer, is it not? And yet no more simple and no more true. The declaration of the apostle John that 'God is love' (I John iv. 8) is as John says, 'God is love,' then God must also be infinitely good, for if we agree that God is love, surely we shall agree that divine Love is identical with all that is good."

"Christian Science teaches that God is not both good and evil, but good only. Therefore, God, as understood in Christian Science, is all good and always good. He is never anything else than good, nor does he ever change. As a basis for our discussion of Christian Science in some of its phases, we have the fundamental proposition that God is good, not merely in name, but always and forever immutably and perfectly good."

"God is also described with equal correctness by the terms Spirit, Life, Truth, and the word already used, Love. Likewise, we may properly refer to God as infinite Mind or Principle. Each of these terms conveys a different shade of meaning. All taken together serve to enlarge our conception of Deity. It will be seen that which is infinitely good is also loving, tender, steadfast, merciful and 'unutterably kind' (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 812). That which is Love itself must be not only loving and good, but impartial, universal, changeless and enduring. That which is Life, the only creative Principle, is not only conscious, active, omnipotent and omniscient. Thus through using some of these definitions of God and of His qualities or attributes, we find that we have greatly amplified our sense of God. Not that words can adequately describe the infinite and eternal, not that the employment of terms or phrases can change God; but the proper use of these terms can help us better to comprehend the divine nature."

But, you say, what of a material universe and mortal mind that of the existence into which mortals seem to have been born and out of which they appear to pass into an uncertain and indefinite future state? What of sin and suffering and sickness and death? What of evil, and matter? We shall not ignore them, although we have already seen why in the best sense they are not real for the simple reason that they are not good. Sin and death, that evil is good, although he may try to make himself believe that in some way it has been provided for his benefit. We have begun to see, in a case, which made all 'that was made.' Effect must be like cause. Evil is not like good. Matter is not like Spirit. Therefore, whatever final disposition is made of evil and death, they cannot reasonably be attributed to the one good, spiritual cause."

"What of the experience called sickness, or disease? Practically all are admitted by physicians that certain kinds of disease have a mental cause. Christian Science declares that all disease has a mental cause. Such as fear, anger, worry, hatred, etc., are now said to produce poisonous conditions on or in the physical body. If this is so, many cases of chronic poisoning can be traced to the human system by a chronic disposition to give way to the emotions? Is it not as reasonable to admit that acute fear immediately manifests itself in a blanched face? If one is obliged to admit the mental cause of some kinds of physical disease, why not agree with Christian Science that, primarily, all disease is due to a mental cause? This does not mean that all disease is the result of conscious fear or of wilful sin. Many types of disease are effects of mental states, hereditary temperament, superstition, ignorance or some of the generally accepted beliefs of the human mind which seem to operate as law. Suppose a man to be sick from one or more of these mental causes. Will drugs cure him? Is there any antitoxin that will destroy hatred, or any serum that will prevent fear? Nothing but the knowledge that God is Love and that man as the image of God is in reality nothing less than the expression of Love, and therefore cannot and does not fear or hate, will effect a permanent cure in such a case.

"Mary Baker Eddy did not invent anything in her discovery of Christian Science. She did not do to that which already was. She discovered the Principle underlying the spiritual healing of physical disease by the prophets, by Christ Jesus, and by the early Christians. As the result of her discovery she was able to restore to the world not only the Science of healing, but the Science of being."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Clinton, Wisconsin, August 31st, 1915.

Dear Sir: The Clinton Athletic Club of Clinton, Wis., has undertaken to hold a Labor Day celebration here on that holiday, and have advertised it very extensively, even having a considerable money already. They are especially anxious that this celebration be a success.

Clinton has always given Beloit and Janesville their patronage, having sent good delegations to all the ball games held in either of these cities, also there is a good share of the trade comes from Clinton to the Beloit and Janesville merchants. We understand that there are to be two ball games played between these two cities, one on September 5th and one on September 6th. We are sure that these ball games will have a tendency to keep some of the people away from our Labor Day celebration, and we would like to have you show your appreciation of the Clinton patronage by arranging these ball games at some other date, which will not have a tendency to conflict with the Clinton celebration.

We sincerely hope that you will see our position in this matter and the spirit in which this request is made and make some arrangements whereby the people of Janesville and Beloit will not be kept from Clinton on Labor Day.

SUITS COATS DRESSES

The Paris masters of style creation have parted the curtains and the whole world knows what Paris knows. The clever American manufacturers have set thousands of nimble fingers to work on the production of models that Paris produced; versatile designers have caught the inspiration and Americanized foreign style ideas to better meet the requirements of American femininity and The Golden Eagle buyer, Mr. Bridges, has gone about the work of elimination and selection with a certainty born of inside knowledge of what the fashionable world will wear.

After all it is mainly a matter of selection.

The Golden Eagle advance models are marked by a simplicity of line and treatment that speak eloquently of rare good taste—yet no woman can say that any one of them is lacking in piquancy. The prices offer the usual range.
